

Fire Suppression Equipment

Myron L. "Mel" Milgrom

Utah continues to lead the nation in reducing fire loss due to the positive approach in the manner we regulate the fire suppression industry. Utah utilizes a deputy who possesses the same skills that the technicians who install and service firefighting and suppression equipment are required to have. Quality control checks are performed on a regular basis and the level of professionalism has risen.

The State Fire Marshal's Office uses the only fully equipped van in the United States to ensure public safety by having the proper tools to examine fire systems and portable extinguishers available.

These fire suppression systems are located in schools, hospitals and businesses. We ensure that if a fire should occur, the fire suppression equipment will extinguish properly.

We work with the fire suppression technicians from the beginning of their careers. Included in the certification process are background checks, written skills testing, hands on performance testing and inspections of their servicing equipment.
